Old Hand Tools

June Program Restoring Old Power Tools

Have you ever been offered somebody's old woodworking machine from an estate of a friend or loved one or just saw something on Craigslist that reminded you of your high school shop class? Are you on a budget and can't afford to buy the latest and greatest shop equipment? If that's you, you may be interested in old woodworking machines or 'old arn' as I prefer to call them. Learn a little bit of what some might call a voyage of discovery by using old woodworking machines in your woodworking. What you won't get is factory support, dust collection, riving knife or flesh sensing technology but you will get is history, style, design, cast iron—and lots of it.

Come join me for a night when we will look at machines of old still used today.

Presented by Phil Kezele

NCWA General Meeting Notes May 2, 2017

- The meeting was called to order by NCWA President Dave Strauss at 7:00 PM in the Hillcrest Lodge in Mt. Vernon.
- President Strauss announced that to accommodate the travel schedule of the program speakers the program would be presented first to be followed by the break and then the traditional business meeting.
- Charlie Drake introduced the speaker, Tom Fulk, who presented the program “Bamboo Fly Rods”
- Program:
 - Tom said that he could tell the NCWA audience how to build a fly rod in 1 minute which he proceeded to do!
 - The procedures, which are easily and quickly described, are very difficult to achieve and to master in practice and require the construction of several specialized jigs.
 - Tom indicated that in addition to several jigs, the key to making a rod is the use of a hand plane- in his case a Stanley 9 ½. He pointed out that it is necessary to plane tapered pieces of Bamboo to within 1/1000 inch.
 - Bamboo for his fly rods is obtained from a very small area in China.
 - Tom demonstrated the procedures necessary to join 6 tiny tapered pieces of Bamboo making a fly rod tapering at the end to approximately 1/8 inch.
 - Tom had available his book, “Fundamental Concepts of Bamboo Fly Rod Design”, for those members wanting more detail on construction and design of Bamboo fly rods.
- The Coffee Break began at 7:45 at the conclusion of the formal program.
- President Straus reconvened the meeting at 8:00 PM.
- Tom Howorth won the raffle prize for the set of Narex Mortising Chisels. Congrats Tom!
- New members were introduced.
- Al Ashley presented a series of changes to the bylaws which were distributed previously to the membership by email. A motion was made and seconded to adopt the bylaw changes. The motion was passed unanimously by voice vote.
- Al also indicated that NCWA hats were available for sale at $15 each.
- Al indicated that the NCWA is sponsoring a ‘Fine Woodworking’ group order available at a 20% reduction in the 1-3-year subscription price. Forms are available and members who are interested should send their completed form and a check made out to NCWA and send to Al Ashley.
- Dale Branland reported on the status of the NCWA education classes and indicated that while many of the classes were full, members should sign up anyway in case a cancellation makes a space available as well as to determine if another section of the class should be offered.
- Dale reported on the status of the Long-Range planning effort he is leading and indicated that he would be scheduling small group regional meetings to solicit input from the membership.
- Charley Drake announced that there was a sign-up sheet for the Jay Smith Viking Ship Boatyard tour scheduled for Saturday, May 27th.
- John Braun, Chairman for the ‘Toys for Tots’ committee publicly thanked Jack McKee, Jim Hickey, and Maggie McInnes for their help in the ‘Woodfest’ Toys for Tots display and demonstrations.
- Bring and Brag
 - David Helm – a beautifully made ADZE made from Big Leaf Maple and finished with Maloof Oil.
 - Ed Crouch – small box made from KOA with ebony splines and chestnut burl – detailed and exquisite.
 - David Steele – This Birdhouse is Dave’s first attempt at a bandsaw style project and was made from buckeye and finished with shellac. Good Job Dave!
 - Jerry Anderson – Vase made from Baltic Birch Plywood and finished with cherry stain and gloss polyurethane. This was Jerry’s first experiment with plywood and it turned out very nice.
 - Jerry Anderson – Routed Candy Dish made from Sapele and finished with 5 coats of clear shellac.
 - Bill Pierce – Carved Date Plaque made from Sugar Pine and finished with Spar Varnish.
 - Gene Radermacher – Wine Barrel Bench made from Oak and finished with Lacquer.
 - Kent Crouse – Sliding Top Box made from Walnut and Quilted Maple, finished with Varnish and featuring 80 and 100-degree splined joinery.
 - Kent Crouse – Routered Box made from Hububali and finished with Oil/Varnish. Kent indicated that it was a challenging wood to plane.
- The May meeting of the NCWA was adjourned at 8:45 PM.

Meet Charles Ogren

Charles Ogren joined our club in March after an invitation from Lee Schuirman. Charles was raised in California and enjoyed woodworking from an early age. In fact his Dad was a carpenter/foreman at Folsom Prison. Charles apprenticed in cabinetmaking and then worked in the carpenter's union for 26 years spending much of his time installing checkstands and fixtures for Safeway. Moving to Washington in 2008, Charles and his wife Carol now live near Big Lake in the last of 3 houses he has built. His log home is filled with trim and cabinetry crafted from the logs he milled on his property. Besides woodworking Charles enjoys hunting and gardening. He went on the Spring Shop Tour right after joining and has enjoyed meeting other club members. He has a box of carving tools left to him by his father and is hoping to take advantage of future carving classes offered by the club. Welcome to the NCWA Charles.

Meet Tom Voegeli

Tom Voegeli grew up on a farm in Kansas where he got his introduction to woodworking from his father. He recently retired from Caterpillar, where he worked for 36 years as an engineer, and moved out West to Bellingham. One day while riding his road bike, he saw Tim Wynn working in his shop. It didn't take long for Tim to convince him to check out our club's website. Tom and his son, who is also a woodworker, both came to our last meeting. Tom is still in the process of setting up his shop, but he's got a good start. There is a nice new Saw Stop cabinet saw in the center. He has several projects on his list including a new dining room table and a set of very creative end tables based on a wooden puzzle. He and his son built a prototype of the table from fir to see how it would look in the house. When you build the final version, Tom, be sure to bring it to one of our meetings!

Meet Dennis Dorgan

Dennis Dorgan grew up in Concrete, WA and currently shares a place in Bellingham with his good friend, Ben also from Concrete. Dennis has been interested in woodworking for a long time, but it really took off when he got hired at Pacific Rim Tonewoods, a company on State Route 20 that has been supplying wood to makers of fine musical instruments for over 30 years. Dennis considers himself lucky because he runs a giant resaw machine where he works and has access to lots of nice scrape wood that would simply be discarded. Since joining, he has already taken Bill Pierce's carving class and is anxious to learn more. His shop is starting to take shape and includes a small lathe that he loves to use (yes, he's also interested in the turners' club, but we can forgive him for that!) Dennis plays guitar in a rock band that does shows locally, Seattle, Eastern Washington and BC, so he also wants to build a guitar someday. Ironically, that's exactly how Pacific Rim Hardwoods was founded!

NCWA Hats

The club has ordered 50 hats with the NCWA logo. If you would like to purchase one of these classic hats bring $15.00 with you to the next meeting (cash or check payable to NCWA).

An Open Letter To the Membership

The NCWA Board of Directors has initiated a long range planning process to identify areas of improvement for the club and to determine the club's future direction.

We begin this planning process from a position of excellence and strength. We feel that we are THE most successful woodworking club in Washington State and perhaps the NW region. You only have to look at our increasing membership numbers. The attendance at the monthly meeting is so good that we need to put 100 chairs in the hall and we have 190 members. We have the largest woodworking lending library in the state and our education classes are well attended and happening almost every weekend of the year.

When you consider all of this you might be asking, "If we are this good, why do we need to go through the review process?" Our answer to that is "if you want to continue being good at what you do, you should always be looking for ways to be even better".

With this thought in mind, the board would like to solicit your feedback on what you like about our club and see if there are areas where we can improve. We plan to do this by holding small group meetings in your area. We will try to hold these meetings at random times so that we can accommodate your schedules. Our hope is that you will think this is important enough to take the time to attend and bring your ideas and suggestions to us.

For sale; Grizzly 6" x 80" Edge Sander Model G1531. Mounted on stand, extra large table, extra belts. Like new, $500.00.

- Mike Chaplin gave a brief report from the Ad Hoc Committee for making a better club. He indicated that the committee was ready to have regional discussion sessions to determine the thoughts of the membership with regard to improvements for the NCWA.
- The Anacortes Arts Festival will be August 4, 5, and 6. Members will be asked to sign up to support at the June General Meeting.
- The Picnic will be August 26.

- New Business.
 - Jim Davis needs new blanks to make nametags for new members. David Strauss volunteered to make the blanks.
 - Tim Wynn indicated that, due to an extensive traveling schedule over the next year, he would have difficulty fulfilling his duties as Association secretary. The Board suggested that he canvass 'likely candidates' to act as Assistant Secretary and to fill in when he was gone.
 - David Strauss indicated that he thought the Association should have some business cards to pass out to potential members and sponsors. The Board thought this was an excellent idea. David Shull moved and Charley Drake seconded that the Association purchase 500 cards. The motion passed unanimously.
- The meeting adjourned at 7:42 p.m.
